Notice from Mihaylo, Center for Entrepreneurship:

Mentors serve a vital role in every CSUF Entrepreneurship class. In our consulting classes, students form teams to complete a comprehensive consulting report for a client and the mentor is with them throughout the semester helping them apply what they are learning in the classroom with the client's real-life situation. In our new venture courses, mentors help their student teams in the creation of a business plan and, hopefully, in the actual launch of a business.

Mentors are asked to attend class usually between five and ten times over the course of the semester for about an hour each time (each professor has unique expectations, please see attached). Some mentors are asked to do site visits to a client's place of business and most mentors will receive emails or phone calls on an ad hoc basis from their student team. Being a mentor is a rewarding experience as mentors get to see the growth in their students from the start of the semester to the end.

Classes start the week of August 26 and mentors will be asked to attend class as early as that week (the professors will be able to provide you with a detailed schedule). If you are interested in becoming a mentor in the CSUF Entrepreneurship program, please look through the list of courses below and let me know which ones interest you. After I get word from most of the mentors I will let you know what your official assignment is (by practice we only place mentors in one class per semester but by providing us with a couple of options we will have more flexibility on your placement and there is a much higher likelihood that we can find a mentoring position for you).

The classes featuring consulting projects are as follows:
Management 460 - Lean Startup Entrepreneurship
Professor: David Obstfeld
Monday 7:00pm to 9:45pm
*This class is on the Irvine campus; all others are on the Fullerton campus

Management 461 – Entrepreneurial Management
Professor: Tom Miller
Tuesday 7:00pm to 9:45pm

Marketing 462 - Marketing for Entrepreneurs
Professor: Scott Sorrell
