

President's Message

By Vickie Hite, President, OLLI-CSUF

Here we are at the end of our academic year. For all of our volunteers, it is the start of our mini-vacation: A time for a little rest and revitalization, which adds to our overall wellbeing and creativity. OLLI-CSUF has had an amazing year; and this is all due to the efforts of our volunteers and office staff.

Our OLLI community reached 1,250 members this year with almost 300 new members; that is a great revitalization of our membership base. Bill Sampson, Debbie Maxwell and Bob Kovacev worked diligently to inform and attract members to our program. Our hope this year is to hit 1,450 members. This will be achieved with your help — "Tell a Friend!"

The efforts by our volunteers have created a buzz about OLLI that is hard to deny and exciting. Our Eclectics course had some great speakers this year, topped off with a standing room only presentation by Erwin Chemerinsky, Dean of UC Berkeley School of Law, along with an astronaut and the son of a mob boss. Now that is "eclectic!" Thank you, Barbara Rosen and Britt Wachsman.

Our social events have been well attended. The Hospitality Committee, headed by Lisa Sewell, had very successful turnouts and the May music recital was another great success. We thanks to Rayleen Williams, Renee Cabrera, Tom Hut and Marge Osborn. Betty Redmond is working on an event for next year that will be a feather in her cap and for OLLI as well — stay tuned.

I want to thank the OLLI Board of Trustees for all of their hard work and dedication this year. This group is working hard to push OLLI forward into a strong future. I would like to thank the newly created Strategic Marketing Committee for their efforts to help recruit new members. Their continued efforts next year will help us reach our long-term goals. I look forward to our next meeting when Susan Snell and Ed Batson will help us analyze our

Mentoring: The Heart of My Retirement

By William Clark, CSUF Alumni Association Lifetime Member and OLLI Collaboration Mentor

Rediscovering Purpose in Retirement

When I retired several years ago, visions of travel, long afternoons with books and finally tackling home improvement projects filled my mind. Yet, it was something unexpected — and deeply meaningful — that would come to define this chapter of my life: returning to my alma mater, Cal State Fullerton, not in body, but in spirit and purpose.

Mentoring Through Project LIFE and I Am First

Over the past five years, as a member of the OLLI Collaboration team, I have had the privilege of mentoring 72 students through two outstanding programs: Project LIFE", a partnership between OLLI-CSUF Collaboration and the CSUF Aging Studies Department's "Introduction to Gerontology" course and, more recently, the CSUF Alumni Association's "I Am First" Program. This program matches alumni mentors with first-generation college students navigating the final stretch of their academic journey at Cal State Fullerton.

Intergenerational Journeys and Mutual Growth

Each student I mentor brings unique energy, courage and determination. Many are trailblazers, the first in their families to attend college. Some balance multiple jobs, coursework and family responsibilities, all in pursuit of a brighter future. Our conversations span topics such as career planning, graduate school applications, wage negotiations, work-life balance and even retirement savings (yes, they are already thinking that far ahead!).

What astonishes me most is how quickly these mentoring sessions become two-way streets of learning. While I might offer advice and perspective, these remarkable students give me a glimpse into the passions, challenges and culture of a new generation.

marketing results for the Open House. Thanks also to Fran Colwell, our Chair for the Development and Philanthropy Committee, for helping to create the strongest fundraising drive since CLE. Our members and volunteers are generous with their time, creativeness and financial support. I know that members don't like to receive too many emails, but I want to thank the Communications group for keeping our members informed about OLLI classes and events. Thanks also to Jill Patterson and Sue Batie for pulling together our Blue Books three times yearly. A big thank you to the Blue Book section editors whose timely efforts keep our course catalog up to date. Chris Shaw, thank you and your team for producing the ChroniCLE 10 times this year. Your publication is always highly anticipated.

When I started this message, it was not my intention to turn it into a thank you note, but I felt it necessary to acknowledge the group of OLLI members who help to drive our organization. Nothing happens without them.

OLLI in the News: Donna Spradlin's Bequest to CSUF

By Chris Shaw, Editor

Donna Spradlin, who is currently an OLLI 90+ Club member, long-time photographer for OLLI, super-volunteer with the Hospitality Committee for many years and wife to OLLI's late Past President Kirt Spradlin, gifted their home to Cal State Fullerton as a living bequest to support scholarships for students pursuing the fields of Aging Studies and English.

Bridging Generations Through Music and Conversation

Sometimes, I surprise my mentees with my taste in music — often drawn from their own playlists. Whether it is “Hot to Go” by Chappell Roan or Rihanna’s “Love on the Brain,” music becomes a point of connection and discovery. In turn, they are curious about the melodies and stories that shaped my own youth. These exchanges spark laughter, understanding and the realization that age is never a barrier to friendship.

Wisdom Without Boundaries

Through mentoring, I have come to appreciate that wisdom is not a one-way transfer. Decades of experience in public service and leadership have their place, but it is the resilience, adaptability and hope of these students that often teach me the most. Our relationships are a testament to the vitality and promise of Cal State Fullerton, which only grows stronger and more supportive with time.

A Call to Fellow OLLI Members

Mentoring has filled my retirement with richness and purpose. It is a daily reminder that retirement is not just an ending, it is a new beginning, opportunity to give back, build connections and help shape the next generation of leaders and thinkers.

To my fellow OLLI members: if you are seeking a way to stay engaged, stay inspired and discover a great new pop song, I encourage you to become a mentor. You may find, as I have, that the most enduring legacy is not found in personal achievements, but in the encouragement we give and the lives we touch along the way.

Vice President External Relations Bill Sampson

By Chris Shaw, Editor and Bill Sampson, Vice President External Relations

Bill Sampson was elected Vice President - External Relations in April 2024 to serve a two-year term on OLLI's Board of Trustees.

Bill was born in Chicago and moved with his family to California in 1960, graduating from UCLA. He began his career as a manufacturer's representative for various home décor companies for the next 38 years, ending with his retirement from Hunter Douglas Window Fashions in 2012. He then spent several years doing consulting work for various companies, finally retiring again in 2019, when he joined OLLI.

Bill has volunteered as a member of the Trips Committee where he has coordinated trips to LAX airport, the Rose Parade and The Hollywood Bowl, among other trips.

Bill has served on the Board of Trustees as a Trustee at Large, Vice President Membership and Vice President Administration.

Bill's current responsibilities as VP External Relations include university liaison, research grants, the Speakers Bureau, OLLI-CSUF Collaboration, long range planning, external relations and publicity, and membership recruitment.

“Bill has served on the Board of Trustees as a Trustee at Large, Vice President Membership and Vice President Administration.”

Bill maintains a strong relationships between OLLI and the University by reaching out to the CSUF community to ensure that administrators, faculty and staff know about our programs and by meeting with the deans from the various CSUF schools on campus. This dovetails with his oversight of the OLLI-CSUF Collaboration Program, which is run by Sue Mullaly, Chair of the OLLI-CSUF Collaboration Committee.

OLLI is an important and integral part of the CSUF campus, and OLLI's Collaboration Program is one of the most well-known ways OLLI members can get involved on campus. Through Collaboration, OLLI members act as test subjects for CSUF student projects, share our life experiences by sitting on panels, mentor individuals and teams of students in many of CSUF's schools, guest-lecture in CSUF courses, act as judges for student competitions, help students launch new businesses, coach classes, provide opportunities for students to perform in front of live audiences, help with job fairs, participate in conferences, volunteer as docents and tutor students.

Bill is responsible for promotional strategies, brochures, advertisements and marketing brochures and coordinating media releases and advertising to promote OLLI's Fall Open House and membership in OLLI-CSUF.

As part of OLLI's promotional strategies, Bill coordinates OLLI's outreach programs, both to the Cal State Fullerton community and to the greater off-campus community at large: to familiarize them with OLLI and its mission and to recruit new members for OLLI. Bill uses the Speakers Bureau to make presentations during appearances of OLLI's performing groups and conduct speaking engagements at retirement fairs, organizations and retirement communities, discussing retirement issues and the benefits of OLLI membership.

Auditing CSUF Courses for Free An Often-Overlooked OLLI Benefit

By Chris Shaw, Editor

One of the most valuable OLLI benefits is the privilege to audit any Cal State Fullerton course, free of any tuition fees, with the instructor's permission and approval from the OLLI Office. OLLI members don't receive any official, academic credit from the University, but they enjoy the benefit of a world-class education, participating with university students.

CSUF's fall semester classes start on August 25, 2025, so if you want to audit a University class, you need to start the application process right away. You must enroll through OLLI.

The deadline to submit your application to the OLLI office is Friday, August 15.

Go to the OLLI website at <http://olli.fullerton.edu> and click on AUDITING CLASSES for step-by-step instructions to enroll through the OLLI Office.

- The first step is to find courses of interest in the catalog. The OLLI webpage provides links to the CSUF course catalog and schedule of classes for each semester.
- The next step is to access the schedule of classes to find specific classes and their Zoom meeting times. Using CSUF's schedule of classes can be daunting, so the OLLI website gives detailed instructions on how to navigate through it.

- You will be asked to complete a form, including your email address, and submit it to the OLLI Office at olli-info@fullerton.edu.
- The OLLI Office will obtain instructor approval to attend your course(s) of choice. If approved, you will receive confirmation from the instructor, and later, information on how to access the class.

Many instructors use CSUF's online learning management system, Canvas, to post handouts and assignments and communicate with their students. This system is also used to provide links to virtual classes. See OLLI's Auditing Classes webpage for more details.

OLLI members have found that when auditing CSUF courses, you really need to buy the books. Most, but not all, instructors will let you slide on homework and exams, but you may want to do the work in order to participate fully and gauge how well you are learning the material.

OLLI members have found also that they were encouraged to ask questions and participate in class discussions. This is good news — we all know OLLI members like to ask questions and offer their thoughts in class. I believe that OLLI members bring wisdom from their careers and life experiences that can add significantly to class discussions and benefit the young CSUF students.

Our members have found CSUF instructors to be insightful and their courses to be challenging. The books may not be cheap, but the value of this level of instruction goes way beyond the cost, especially when you consider you pay no tuition.

Make a Difference That Lasts a Lifetime — and Beyond

Support What You Love: Easy Ways to Give Back to OLLI-CSUF

If OLLI-CSUF has brought meaning, friendship or inspiration into your life, there are simple ways you can give back and help ensure that others enjoy the same experience — now and in the future. Whether you're looking to make a tax-smart gift today or plan a legacy for tomorrow, there are flexible options to fit your goals and your generosity.

Giving Now: Make a Difference Today (and Enjoy Tax Benefits)

There are two easy and popular ways to support

OLLI-CSUF during your lifetime that may also provide you with tax advantages:

1. IRA Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD)

If you're 70½ or older, you can donate directly from your IRA — up to $105,000 per year (or $210,000 for couples) — and it counts toward your Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) without adding to your taxable income. It's a simple process that starts with contacting your IRA custodian. Learn more about QCDs HERE

2. Charitable Gift Annuity (CGA)

Want to turn low-yield assets like CDs into a gift that pays you back? A CGA lets you make a charitable gift and receive fixed income for life. Current rates are very favorable — for example, a 75-year-old could receive 7% annually for life. Plus, you get a charitable tax deduction. Learn more about CGAs HERE.

Giving Later: Plan Now, Give in the Future

If you'd prefer to make your gift after your lifetime, here are two simple ways to leave a legacy, without impacting your finances today:

1. Charitable Beneficiary Designation

You can name OLLI-CSUF as a beneficiary of your retirement account, life insurance policy or other assets. This is as easy as filling out a form from your financial institution, and you'll retain full control of your assets during your lifetime. Learn more about Beneficiary Designations HERE.

2. Charitable Bequest

Including OLLI-CSUF in your will or living trust is a powerful way to support future learners. You can specify a dollar amount or a percentage of your estate, whatever feels right for you. Talk to your estate planning attorney to get started. Learn more about Charitable Bequests HERE.

All planned gifts to OLLI-CSUF are coordinated through University Advancement. If you're thinking about how to make a lasting impact, we'd love to help you explore your options.

Please contact us at hroussel@fullerton.edu to learn more or start the conversation.

OLLI is offering an "Estate Planning and Charitable Giving" online webinar three times during the fall semester. You can choose any one of these dates: September 11, October 17 or November 13. See the Blue Book for more information. Also, watch the OLLI newsletters for an announcement of a one-time, in-person seminar in the fall that is not in the Blue Book.

A Star-Spangled Celebration: June 21, 2025

Collaboration Steering Committee Meeting 2025

The OLLI-CSUF Collaboration Program hosts an annual Collaboration Steering Committee meeting each year, attended by the associate deans from CSUF's nine colleges, the Deputy Provost of Academic Affairs, select CSUF partners, the OLLI Executive Director, 10 OLLI Board members and 10 Collaboration members, chaired by Sue Mullaly.

This year's meeting was held on Monday, June 30. The gathering provided an opportunity to renew or establish new partnerships while reviewing the Collaboration activities from July 2024 through June 2025. During this time, OLLI volunteers assisted more than 1,600 students and faculty members by contributing more than 2,000 hours of service.

Since its inception in January 2024, donations from OLLI members to CSUF's Student Basic Needs Program have included over 2,500 pounds of food (2,000 items) to the CSUF Pantry, 2,050 items of clothing to Tuffy's Career Closet, nearly 1,400 hygiene products to Basic Needs Services, and 160 packages of primarily craft supplies to the Children's Center.

The OLLI Collaboration partnership with CSUF offers numerous benefits to both OLLI's retired members and CSUF's students. It promotes a sense of purpose and well-being for our older adults while enriching students' educational experiences and career preparedness. Over the past 15 years, through meaningful intergenerational exchanges and various collaborative activities, the OLLI-CSUF Collaboration Program has had the privilege of supporting student success as a vibrant and supportive member of the university community.

A light lunch was followed by a breakout session with CSUF attendees and OLLI members discussing new ways to enhance our intergenerational approach to supporting student success.

Collaboration members with many different life experiences contribute their time and generous hearts in five key areas of volunteering:

1. Mentoring - One-on-One Students and/or Student Teams.
2. Panels, Focus Groups, Judging, Research Participants.
3. Soft Skills/Career Skills Development - One-on-One or Workshops.
4. Conversation and Writing Skills Practice.
5. Sharing Life or Professional Experiences.

The OLLI Collaboration Team welcomes all OLLI members to learn more about the fulfilling opportunities to participate in CSUF student success!

For more information about OLLI-CSUF Collaboration opportunities, contact Sue Mullaly, Collaboration Committee Chair, at Smullaly@csu.fullerton.edu, or click here to learn more about OLLI Collaboration.

New Programs in the Fall Curriculum

These nine, new programs are included in the fall 2025 semester curriculum.

You can find the entire semester's class or event meeting schedules for these new programs in the Fall Blue Book and on the OLLI website (under Classes/Activities and under Calendars). Weekly meeting schedules are also available in the weekly Class Information and Updates Newsletters and the announcements display in the lobby of the Shapiro Wing.

Check the full program descriptions in the Blue Book or OLLI website for possible pre-registration or prerequisite requirements, and watch the newsletters in case there are last-minute schedule changes or meeting cancellations.

Shelf-Aware:Banned/ Challenged Books

Have you ever been curious about books which are challenged and banned? If so, please join us in this new course, called "Shelf-Aware," which will focus on some of our most beloved literary works. We'll learn details about the reasons behind these threatened publications. We will dive deeply, exploring and appreciating picture books, chapter books, young adult books and adult books. The instructor/coordinator is Andrea Tarr.

Learn to Play Recorder

Come join us to learn how to play the recorder. It is one of the easiest instruments to learn and play. Even if you have breathing issues, you will be able to produce music easily. And it is good for your health, too. (The NIH has shown that playing an instrument can lower the risk of cognitive impairment.) The ability to read music is a plus, but not necessary. We will teach you. You can buy a very good recorder online for under $15. You will also need to purchase the book Essential Elements for Recorder published by Hal Leonard Corporation. It is available online for about $6. Other music will be provided. Get ready to experience the joy of making music!

If you know how to play, join us. In a short while, we will be playing all kinds of fun music—folk, popular, oldies and more. The instructor is Charlotte Lynch and the coordinator is Penny Bowman.

Spanish Conversation

This class will be offered to students who have a basic ability to communicate in Spanish and who want to improve their oral skills. While grammar, vocabulary and writing are provided in other classes, the objective of this class is to develop the most difficult aspect of a language, which is speaking without extensive preparation. Vocabulary, attention to pronunciation and usage of proper grammar will be expanded during this course. The class topics will be varied and include conversations about selected articles, movies, documentaries and themes in which students discuss their views and understanding in Spanish. Students may be assigned to groups to argue for or against an idea or concept. The instructors/coordinators are Suzi Attal and Lu Attal.

Italian Renaissance and Beyond: Venice

This course delves into various aspects of Italian civilization during the Renaissance and slightly beyond. It is interdisciplinary, integrating multiple disciplines such as history, visual arts, music, literature and government to provide a well-rounded picture of the era. The fall semester will focus on the Republic of Venice during its Golden Age, from the 1400s to 1600s. What made the Republic of Venice one of the most splendid cities of the European Renaissance? What contributed to its fall? Examples of Venetian documents provide extensive information about this fascinating city and enlighten us about how history is written. Through audio and visual material, we will learn about various events and trends discovering how they influenced other areas of life, resulting in “aha” moments for students as they make connections and understand how each aspect affects everything else. The instructor is Giulio Ongaro, and the coordinator is Cheryl Ongaro.

Artificial Intelligence (AI) Basics for the Curious

This course introduces OLLI members to the fast-evolving world of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in an accessible and engaging format. Designed for learners across a range of tech confidence levels, the course explores where AI shows up in everyday life and where it's headed next. Topics include The basics of AI, Getting started with ChatGPT and voice assistants, Understanding AI's impact on privacy, creativity and ethical decision-making. Participants will also learn how to use AI tools for writing, researching, organizing etc. Each class includes a brief segment of hands-on implementation. Drawing from his teaching experience in OLLI tech courses and support roles in AI workshops, Danny Torres brings a hands-on, learner-friendly approach to the material. Special note: Participants are encouraged to bring an internet-connected device (smartphone, tablet, or laptop) for in-class practice, with campus access via SIM or the Eduroam Wi-Fi network. The instructor/coordinator is Danny Torres.

Cybersecurity Essentials for Seniors

Older adults are becoming increasingly vulnerable to cyberattacks, making them prime targets for various forms of online exploitation. In collaboration with CSUF's Orange County Cyber Innovation Clinic (OCCIC), OLLI members will learn practical skills to protect themselves and their devices (phones, tablets and computers). Specific threats such as phishing, vishing and smishing scams, financial fraud and malicious software will be discussed, and attendees will learn how to protect themselves. The interactive lecture and workshop will focus on these common cyber threats. Attendees will watch live demonstrations and participate in interactive exercises on their own devices to help them recognize these threats. Weaknesses will be identified, and highly rated products may be recommended to strengthen the device's security. This course is taught by CSUF industry-certified CSUF students and overseen by CSUF faculty. Register for both sessions using TouchNet so that adequate support may be provided. See the weekly OLLI newsletters for more information. The instructors are OCCIC Industry-Certified CSUF Students, and the coordinators are Tom LaCasa, Roz Charles, Danny Torres and Paul Herrick.

It's Not Easy Being Green

Each class will focus on a case study of a proposed or completed green energy project. We will begin with a video and/or brief instructor presentation describing the project. The remainder of the class will be a group discussion of the issues and opportunities of the project from a wide variety of disciplines including underlying science, cost/benefits, “well to wheels” environmental impact (reviewing a project throughout its lifecycle), technological viability, social acceptance and political impact. Some possible topics include: Rooftop and Grid Scale Solar Electricity Generation, Household and Grid Scale Energy Storage Using Batteries, Electrically Driven Cars/Trucks/Ships/Planes and Fresh Water Generation From Desalination of Seawater. The instructor is Rick Hearn, and the coordinator is Susan Hanna.

Moses: An Unlikely Character

Historical proofs for Moses' existence and that of the Exodus have been elusive. In this course, we'll present the improbability that Moses was a historical figure. Instead, we'll explore Moses as an amalgam of folkloric influences and editorial strategies used to create the literary centerpiece of Israelite identity. To do so, we'll parse (deconstruct) the Moses narrative from within, introducing its historical, linguistic (but you need not know any Hebrew) and storyboard incongruities. We'll also address the story's external structure to establish that a figure internal to the narrative could not have authored it. Beyond folklore, the Moses story will be offered as a wisdom tale that uses motifs standard in the ancient Near East; we'll investigate the ways in which the Moses story has been rewritten and repurposed to satisfy biblical and non-biblical agendas. Please pre-read the books of Exodus, Numbers and Deuteronomy. Bring a Bible (your choice, but a translation, not a summary interpretation), an open mind and a respect for others' views. The instructor is Dr. Craig Miller, and the coordinator is Dr. Ben Hubbard.

One God, Three Faiths: Jews, Christians and Muslims in Cooperation and Conflict

The aim is to present an objective account of how these three traditions have interacted throughout their histories. This course will analyze why relations among them have been positive in some eras and negative in others. It will help to clarify the misunderstandings and outright bigotry that have resulted in bias, hatred and persecution among them. This course will offer suggestions about how these three “children of Abraham” might improve relations, especially in America, to prevent anti-Semitism, hatred of Christians and Islamophobia. The instructor is Dr. Ben Hubbard, and the coordinator is Jeanette Reese.

“This course will offer suggestions about how these three “children of Abraham” might improve relations, especially in America, to prevent anti-Semitism, hatred of Christians and Islamophobia.”
